Compared to last week, steers and heifers sold uneven; from steady to 2.00 lower in the North Central area to steady to 4.00 higher in the Southeast and South Central areas. Some auctions in the Southern areas reported spots up to as much as 10.00 higher on what would be considered cattle suitable for grazing and demand for those kind is expected to be good in anticipation of grass. Most grazing areas are not showing any signs of drought stress currently. Another widespread area of colder weather along with precipitation hit the breadbasket of the country this week after last week's Polar Vortex that left many shaking their head and knowing that one thing they cannot change is Mother Nature. The CME Cattle Complex was higher on the week with the largest increases bookending this week. The front six Feeder Cattle contracts were 1.58 to 2.30 higher on the week while Live Cattle contracts were 1.35 to 1.92 higher for the same timeframe. For the first 4 days into the February Live Cattle contract, there have been 100 certificates tendered for delivery. With the negotiated ...
