Foreign type cheese demand is steady from the retail and food service sectors. Industry sources indicate food service sales are less robust in some parts of Europe. Demand from southern European buyers is strong with more seasonal travel taking place. Export demand is strong. Some buyers are looking outside of Europe to fill their foreign type cheese demand with the euro being strong. European milk production is mixed. In some cases, handlers conveyed cooler temperatures over the middle of July paused seasonal milk declines. European cheese production varies from steady to lighter. Inventories for spot buyers are not robust. However, manufacturers and distributors indicate demand is balanced with sufficient supply. Market tones vary from stable to slightly bearish.
